

Community Sport Thriving in the 21st Century

Upcoming Conference – February 2012

You are invited to attend a conference that will bring together inspiring speakers, case studies and practical sessions about how to make your community sports club thrive, even in challenging times.

This conference is for people who work or volunteer in community based sports clubs of any type in Scotland, but with a particular emphasis on bringing together people from boxing, bowling and community football clubs that are based in coalfield communities.

Conference Overview

Thriving in the 21st Century: Money and Members

Community Sports Clubs bring fantastic benefits to the people and towns that they serve. To continue to make this difference, they need to be financially secure, and need to be able to continue to attract members and supporters. This conference will provide practical tips and advice on how your club can do both. It will be packed with:

Case studies Hear how other clubs have successfully secured funding to support their growth and development and increased their membership base	Workshops Explore practical ideas to help your club attract more members and make more money, including funding sources, tips and enterprising ideas, marketing and social media
Funders Representatives from key funding sources will be there on the day with information on current / upcoming grants that may be of interest	Opportunities Meet and network with people from other boxing, bowling and community football clubs across Scotland
